

English Proficiency Certificate

For Exchange Students (Bachelor's and Master's level)

Self-assessment of English language proficiency

Students applying for exchange studies must have a level of English that will allow them to follow the teaching in an adequate way.

The headlines listed below are based on the criteria for level B2 in the Common European Framework of Reference, CEFR (<http://europass.cedefop.europa.eu/resources/european-language-levels-cefr>). They describe the level of English that you will need as an exchange student studying courses on bachelor's level.

Self-assessment of your English language level

Listening

I can understand extended speech and lectures in English and follow even complex lines of argument provided that the topic is reasonably familiar. I can understand most TV news and current affairs programmes. I can understand the majority of films in standard English.

Reading

I can read articles and reports concerned with contemporary problems in which the writers adopt particular attitudes or viewpoints. I can understand contemporary literary prose.

Spoken interaction

I can interact with a degree of fluency and spontaneity that makes regular interaction with native speakers of English possible. I can take an active part in discussions in familiar contexts, accounting for and sustaining my views.

Spoken production

I can present clear, detailed descriptions on a wide range of subjects related to my field of interest. I can explain a viewpoint on a topical issue, giving the advantages and disadvantages of various options.

Writing

I can write clear, detailed text on a wide range of subjects related to my interests. I can write an essay or report, passing on information or giving reasons in support of or against a particular point of view. I can write letters highlighting the personal significance of events and experiences.

Do you feel that you are able to do the things mentioned above? If so, please go to the second page of this form and sign the certification.
